

Exercise Six p 122

1. Laissez-faire, the philosophy that government should not interfere with commerce or trade, was . . .
2. All polar bears are, as a matter of fact, left-handed.
3. Sherlock Holmes, Sir Arthur Conan Doyle's brilliant detective, first appeared . . .
4. Michael, are you sure we're headed in the right direction?
5. Remove the comma.
6. Alan Turing, the father of computer science, chained . . .to stop anyone else at work from using it.
7. It was a pretty good poker hand, I guess.
8. The Great Wall of China, which runs from northern China for 2,162 miles, is the largest . . .
9. Okay, we'll do it your way.
10. The tallest monument in the United States, the Gateway Arch in St. Louis, is 630 feet tall.
11. Well, I thought it was a good idea, Leslie.
12. One of the biggest events in . . .is Wrestle Mania, which decides the world champions.
13. George Eastman, the founder of Kodak Corporation, hated to have his picture taken.
14. As a matter of fact, it would be a good time to apologize.
15. Bobby Leach, the second man . . .in a barrel, survived the fall, bur later died . . .

Chapter Review Four p 122